| Eval. Notes: | Affordable Body Shop conducts general automotive paint and body repairs and is a conditionally exempt small quantity generator that produces approximately 32 lbs of hazardous waste per month consisting of paint related wastes. The facility uses a solvent recycler to reduce waste generation. Still bottoms from the recycler are stored in a 55-gallon drum and transported by a registered hazardous waste transporter. Robbie D. Woods Inc., (ALD067138891) picks up the facility's hazardous waste and transports it to the destination facility Permafix of South Georgia (GAD093380814) in Valdosta, Georgia. Used oil and used antifreeze are stored in 55-gallon drums. All containers were labeled and properly closed. Carquest takes the facility's used batteries and Key Electric maintains the facility's used mercury lamps. The facility appeared to be in compliance at the conclusion of the inspection. swift Submitted for approval by Mitchell, Aaron Submitted for approval by Mitchell, Aaron | | | | | | | | | | | | |

| Eval. Notes: | ABS has five bays to conduct automotive body repairs, one frame machine bay and two paint booths for full automotive painting or touch-ups. The following were observed during the inspection: ABS has on-site a Herkules gun washer recycler, which personnel said wasn't operating as a recycler just a washer. ABS utilizes a Uniram URS500 Solvent Recycler to recycle waste paint solvents. Bagged recycling residual solids are accumulated in an open top, 55-gallon metal drum and recycled solvent is transferred manually to a closed top, metal 55-gallon drum for reuse. Recycling operations are handled solely by the painter. Facility personnel explained the practice of transporting hazardous paint-related wastes to this location from ABS's Panama City Beach location for on-site consolidation. ABS had containers for used oil and waste antifreeze inside the building which were labeled. The used oil was not in secondary containment but the facility is allowed to accumulate up to 55 gallons of used oil inside a structure if the structure can prevent the release of used oil to the environment. Paper rags are used with two types of solvent applied. One solvent (DX 320) has toluene and xylene in its composition but less than 10% total and a flash point of 55 degrees F. The other solvent (Multiprep DX103) is a propanol-, alcohol-based solvent with a flash point of 53 degrees F. A review of the material safety data sheets for each solvent reflected that rags may carry the hazardous waste code for hazardous ignitable wastes of D001. Current practice is disposal of rags in the garbage. A total of five manifests were reviewed with no discrepancies noted. RQ Hazardous Waste, paint-related material (D001, D035, F003, F005) and RQ Hazardous Waste Liquids (D006, D007, D008), (used oil) are transported to Permafix of S. Georgia GAD093380814 for disposal. It was noted that the used oil drum on-site was labeled used oil and non-RCRA waste but current manifests to Permafi | | | | | | | | | | | | |
